I am very interested in this position because I am a highly knowledgeable, results-driven, and change agile professional who places a high value on personal integrity, responsibility, and accountability. I possess and offer to bring a combination of more than twenty-five (25) years of professional experience to your team which includes human resources, financial analysis, policy interpretation, regulatory compliance, legislative lobbying, training, and workforce development. More importantly, I hope you find that my broad professional experiences and educational background have equipped me with desirable skills needed to be successful and increasingly competent within this capacity.
- Areas of expertise and interests/skills: Within my leadership toolbox, I believe in providing cost-effective and efficient learning solutions that will enable employees to take on new responsibilities. I have a proven track record of successfully leading the end-to-end life cycle of learning and development projects within public, private, and non-profit sectors. Most recently, I served as the training project manager for the redesign, development, and implementation of major storm restoration training for internal employees. In addition to creating the end training product, I performed the training needs analysis, wrote the supporting business case including budgetary implications, the training recommendation report, and the enterprise-wide training implementation plan. Currently, more than 3,600 employees have successfully completed this training program.

Additionally, I will like to bring the following skills to your team as well:

- Experienced program manager;
 - Analytical thinker and problem solver;
 - Expertise in policy analysis, interpretation, and implementation;
 - Excellent communication skills including written and espoused;
 - Excellent facilitator;
 - Exemplary people skills;
