Outcome

Since 2012, 32,000 people experiencing homelessness were housed with a ~90% success rate in housing programs

From 2023 – 2024, 1,673 people were moved indoors from unsheltered homelessness and 583 people moved to permanent housing

Potential to help up to 915 cost burdened households avoid homelessness and provide 800 more households with affordable housing in a year

Our current homelessness/ housing instability support ecosystem does not yield optimal outcomes

Existing challenges in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg homelessness/ housing instability support service ecosystem

Complex ecosystem

Creating navigation challenges for individuals and households needing help

Under-investment in prevention

Efforts concentrated in emergency and downstream response with opportunity for stronger prevention upfront

Limited infrastructure for agency collaboration across sectors

Lack of common ways of working and data infrastructure for agencies to share information, collaborate and coordinate hand-offs

Limited line of sight into critical areas needing the most attention and help

Funding may not be directed to where it is needed most without a holistic view of the ecosystem

Siloed, inconsistent tracking of progress

Inconsistent use and contribution of data to any single system by the agencies to capture progress

Inadequate integration and support for smaller agencies/ grassroots efforts

Limited opportunities to showcase and collaborate with innovative and nimble smaller agencies/ grassroots efforts

A Home For All works to drive systemic change

A Home For All addresses homelessness / housing instability through:

Prevention

Focus on proactive preventative measures that tackle the underlying issues leading to homelessness, reducing the number of individuals entering the cycle and need for downstream mitigation efforts and costs

Navigation

Focus on helping individuals and households navigate the complex ecosystem to get the right care at the right time, simplify the journey, improve the experience and reduce dropouts

Connectivity

Focus on building and sustaining a strong community of providers supported by common infrastructure and ways of working to enable seamless hand-offs, less duplication, and improved system-level effectiveness

Partnership

Focus on empowering agencies with grants that braid public and private funding to enable greater agility, innovation, and scope of impact

Illustrating system navigation

Illustrative Scenario

Meet David

David is a 36-year-old construction worker that has always been physically active and relied on his job to support himself. However, he recently suffered from a severe spinal injury while at work. Unable to continue working and unable to claim workers compensation since he was paid in cash, David can no longer afford his rent. With little savings or family support, and limited access to medical care, he finds himself in a distressing situation and in desperate need of assistance.

Knowing he cannot keep up with his rent, David seeks help from Coordinated Entry where he undergoes an intake process.

However, since he is three weeks away from being evicted, he is not matched with a case worker. Coordinated Entry refers him to an agency for financial assistance, but he is denied due to lack of employment.

1 Vulnerability

2 Precipitating Events

Basic Needs

David is given a vetted list of agencies to contact for his basic, medical, employment and housing needs. He calls a service provider who provides access to food and hygiene products, only to be told they are closed for the day.

Finally, he reaches a provider who is able to help and goes through yet another intake process.

With his construction career no longer feasible, he contacts an attorney. He is told it would take months before his case is resolved.

Medical Assistance

To treat his injury, David visits a free clinic, but lack of medical records make it challenging for doctors to provide timely care.

Employment Assistance

David tries to seek unemployment assistance but does not know who to contact for assistance with completing the application.

Housing Assistance

Meanwhile, lack of sufficient affordable housing supply forces David to vacate his apartment and seek refuge at an emergency shelter.

3 Loss of Housing

4 Unsheltered / Emergency Shelter

Illustrating system navigation

The appropriate navigation support could have spared David multiple wasted trips and time in an effort to seek assistance

With a well-established navigation support infrastructure...

David would have a designated contact who understands his needs and eligibility to match him with suitable programs, including grassroots services he might not be aware of

 System Navigation

David's System Navigator would have access to a flexible services spending account that could help bridge David's immediate needs, including timely treatment for his spinal injury and access to basic needs

 Flexible Funds

Record of David's situation and journey would be maintained in an integrated data management system used across sectors, sparing David the need to reshare his story and relieve his challenges each time he seeks assistance

 Shared Database

Also relates to Connectivity

At the system level, better coordination and visibility into providers across the ecosystem makes it easier to match individuals with the right programs, enabling Charlotte-Mecklenburg to unlock the full value of its already robust service provider population.
